APA 7th referencing guide

Last updated JULY 2022

APA 7th is an author-date referencing style used across a broad range of subject areas. It is based on the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association, 7th edition.

This guide is primarily for students completing assignments at Curtin University. If you are publishing (e.g. journal article, PhD), please consult the above publication as examples provided here may differ slightly from the requirements outlined in the official style guide.

Using this guide

This guide includes three sections, which when used together address how to create in-text citations and reference list entries in the APA 7th referencing style.

In-text citations explained

Provides information and examples regarding quoting, paraphrasing and other scenarios primarily impacting your in-text citations.

Author variations

Provides information and examples crucial to the construction of your in-text citations and reference list. Not sure how to display different numbers of authors, a corporate author or no author at all? You'll find the information here.

Reference list examples

Provides information and examples for constructing your reference list entries.

About APA referencing

Referencing is a standardised method of acknowledging sources of information and ideas that you have used in your assignments or research, in a way that uniquely identifies the source. It is not only necessary for avoiding plagiarism, but also for supporting your ideas and arguments.

There are two parts to referencing:

- In-text citation
- Reference list entry

In-text citations explained

In-text citations are included throughout the course of your writing, to acknowledge the sources of information you have used to build and support your ideas. An in-text citation provides information about the author, the year the information was published, and sometimes location information such as a page number.

An in-text citation can be presented in different ways:

Stark and Lannister (2019) – the author(s) names are part of the sentence, appearing outside the brackets
(Stark & Lannister, 2019) – all the referencing information appears within brackets

Tip! As shown above: use and when the author's names form part of the sentence use & when the author's names appear within brackets

The table below provides additional information and examples of how to reference in-text when paraphrasing and quoting in the APA style.

Paraphrasing
Paraphrasing is when you present the ideas of others, in your own words. <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• The in-text citation includes author and year of publication</li><li>• Check with your lecturer to see whether you should also include a page number (which is not required in the APA manual)</li></ul>
In-text citation Palladino and Wade (2010) argue that mental well-being is linked with flexible thinking. It could be argued that mental flexibility is a key factor in well-being (Palladino &amp; Wade, 2010).

Quoting (40 words or less)

Quoting is when you copy the exact words from another source into your work.

- Place quotation marks around the quote
- The in-text citation includes author, year of publication and page number
- Use the paragraph number for sources where the page number is not available

In-text citation

According to Palladino and Wade (2010), “a flexible mind is a healthy mind” (p. 147).

In fact, “a flexible mind is a healthy mind” (Palladino & Wade, 2010, p. 147).

Lee (2015) states that, “in APA style, double quotation marks are used to enclose quoted material” (para. 1).

“In APA style, double quotation marks are used to enclose quoted material” (Lee, 2015, para. 1).

Quoting (more than 40 words)

- Use a freestanding block of text which:
  - Starts on a new line
  - Is indented from the left margin
  - Does not include quotation marks
- Your in-text citation will appear in brackets after the final punctuation mark and will include the author, year of publication, and page/paragraph number

In-text citation

In-text citations are important in academic writing, drawing the parallel between the author’s work and the sources which support it:

The function of any citation-signaller is to alert the reader to some kind of association between the citing text and the cited text. Citation-signallers may additionally, by using page references or chapter numbers, single out a particular part of the text as especially relevant. (Langham, 2005, p. 361)

Multiple sources for the same information

When including multiple sources to support a particular point in your writing or demonstrate a consensus:

- The in-text citation includes all sources in the same set of brackets, ordered alphabetically. Separate the citations with semi colons
- Include a reference list entry for each source

In-text citation

There is an established consensus that the current trend towards a warming climate is directly linked to human activity (Hegerl, 1996; Levitus et al., 2017; NASA, n.d.; Robinson et al., 2014; Santer et al., 2003).

Multiple works by the same author(s)

- Order chronologically in the reference list. References with no date (n.d.) precede references with dates

In-text citation

(Bull, 2008). Bull (2010) states...

Reference list

Bull, M. (2008). Governing the heroin trade: From treaties to treatment. Ashgate Publishing.
<https://ebookcentral.proquest.com/lib/curtin/detail.action?docID=438571>

Bull, M. (2010). Punishment and sentencing: Risk, rehabilitation and restitution. Oxford University Press.
<https://ebookcentral.proquest.com/lib/curtin/detail.action?docID=1985996>

Multiple works by the same author(s) – published in the same year

- Add a, b, c after the year to differentiate works by the same author(s) published in the same year
- Order alphabetically by title of the work in the reference list
- For references that have no date (shown by n.d.), use the following forms for the date in the in-text citation and reference list: (n.d.-a), (n.d.-b) etc.

In-text citation

(Clarke & Fawcett, 2014b). AND Clarke and Fawcett (2014a) suggest that...

Reference list

<https://doi.org/10.1177/0894318413509708>

Different authors with the same surname

If referring to two or more publications where the primary (first) authors have the same surname, include the first author's initials in all in-text citations, even if the year of publication differs. Initials help avoid confusion within the text and help readers locate the correct reference list entry.

In-text citation

(M. Johnson et al., 2016). OR M. Johnson et al. (2016) state...

Authors citing other authors

Academic content such as books and journal articles will often contain a lot of citations. When do you need to give credit to the original author (primary source)? Cite the original author when:

- They are quoted by your source (the secondary source)
- When a specific study is discussed in the secondary source and you reproduce findings or arguments from that study without accessing the primary source
- Indigenous knowledges are cited by a non-Indigenous author, or knowledges cited are connected to a particular community or language group to which the Indigenous author does not belong

When citing a secondary source:

- The in-text citation should include author details from the primary source, as well as the author, year of publication and page/paragraph number from the secondary source
- Only the secondary source is included in the reference list

In-text citation

"We are part of the land, it is part of us" (Philippe, 2008, as cited in Maldonado et al., 2013, p. 610).

Philippe (2008, as cited in Maldonado et al., 2013) states "we are part of the land, it is part of us" (p. 610).

In-text citation – Indigenous knowledges

Sixteen plant parts, collected from eight separate species were assessed by the University of Western Sydney's Health Research Institute for their antioxidant and antimicrobial potential, their effectiveness long established within the Aboriginal community (Mbabaram knowledge, as cited in Packer et al., 2019, p. 5).

Author variations (for in-text citations and reference list)

Author variations apply to all reference types.

No author

If no personal author is given, check to see if an organisation has acted as the author. Where there are no authors and you are sure that your source is credible, follow the guidelines below:

- Use the title of the work in place of the author in the in-text citation and in the reference list
- If the title is too long, shorten it in the in-text citation
- If the title is italicised in the reference also italicise it in the in-text citation
- If the title is not italicised in the reference, use double quotation marks around it in the in-text citation
- Use headline style capitalisation (all major words start with a capital letter) for the title for in-text citations and in the text of your assignment

In-text citation

("A Higher Education Return," 2016). OR In the article "A Higher Education Return" (2016)...

Reference list

One or two authors

- List author(s) in every citation
- Spell 'and' if you include two authors as part of the sentence (outside of brackets) in your assignment

In-text citation

(Burns, 2015). OR Burns (2015) claimed that...

(Lane & Catling, 2016). OR Lane and Catling (2016) found that...

Three to 20 authors

- For in-text citations, cite only the surname of the first author followed by et al (meaning and others).
- When multiple works with three or more authors shorten to the same in-text citation, to avoid ambiguity write out as many names as needed to distinguish the references and abbreviate the remaining names to et al. For example: (Smith, Jones, McDonald et al., 2019) (Smith, Jones, Black et al., 2019).
- Include all authors in the reference list

In-text citation

(Habary et al., 2017). OR Habary et al. (2017) suggested that...

21 or more authors

- For in-text citations, cite only the surname of the first author followed by et al.
- When multiple works with three or more authors shorten to the same in-text citation, to avoid ambiguity write out as many names as needed to distinguish the references and abbreviate the remaining names to et al. For example: (Smith, Jones, McDonald et al., 2019) (Smith, Jones, Black et al., 2019).
- List the first 19 authors in the reference followed by an ellipsis (. . .) then the final author's name

Organisation as author

- Write the organisation name in full in text and in the reference list
- Organisation names should be written in full in the first in-text citation and may be abbreviated thereafter, as shown in the example below
- Where multiple departments are listed, use the organisation most responsible for the information as the author. In government documents particularly, the hierarchy is often displayed, for example: Government of Western Australia, Department of Health, Royal Perth Hospital. The smallest department is usually primarily responsible for the content (in this case, Royal Perth Hospital)

First in-text citation

Reference list

Reference components

A reference consists of a number of components that allow the identification of the original source. These components must be presented with specific formatting. Examples for some reference types are provided below. Find components for additional reference types in the table of reference list examples.

Journal article

Chapter in an edited eBook

Reference list examples

Your reference list includes all of the books, journal articles, reports etc. that you have cited in the text of your work. See an example of an APA Reference list in the APA Referencing guide: Sample reference list. Note when using the APA style: All titles (with the exception of journal titles) appear in sentence style capitalisation (where only the first word, proper nouns, and words following punctuation such as colons, full stops etc. are capitalised). Journal titles appear in headline style capitalisation (where all significant words are capitalised).
